Hands Off Iran!

The U.S. war machine was severely depleted by its 40-day war of aggression against the Islamic Republic. To the imperialist war machine, the highly publicized "ceasefire" was never a pursuit of genuine peace; it was a mechanical stalling tactic designed to buy time to restock munitions at local U.S. bases in Kuwait, Bahrain, and Qatar.

The mask of benevolence entirely slipped when the U.S. President Donald Trump unilaterally declared America the "Guardian of the Hormuz Strait" and demanded a 20 percent protection fee on all cargo.

This re-exposes the U.S. imperialist military base network not as a defender of global security as claimed, but as a vast collection agency for the financial oligarchy, reliant on maritime piracy to fund its own collapsing economy.

However, just as you cannot achieve peace abroad while maintaining a system of exploitation at home, nor can you achieve genuine democracy at home while waging imperialist wars abroad.

To protect this vertical pipeline of robbery, Western diplomats and media consistently scream "unprovoked aggression" with Iran's legitimate defense of its own territorial waters, hoping to thought police a blockade of silence around the fact that the Strait of Hormuz is not an international waterway, but falls entirely within the sovereign maritime borders of Iran and Oman.

Figures like the German Foreign Minister play the role of the deceitful ghoul, utilizing the bourgeois sensationalism of "free transit" to demand that Iran unconditionally reopen the strait, while utterly ignoring the U.S. military's days and nights of unprovoked missile strikes on Iranian coastal infrastructure.

The most dangerous weapon is wielded by the opportunist gatekeepers of the multiparty system, where they attempt to inject artificial separation into the resistance by engineering a quid pro quo conflict.

The Pentagon war machine preaches a separation of diplomatic track for each new angel it can find dancing on the head of a pin. It does this in order to isolate, bully and blackmail the different fronts of its aggressive war program.

The Trump war program targets both established, sovereign nation-state with a formal military, a massive industrial base, and official diplomatic channels as well as grassroots national liberation movements and local defense forces who are fighting for their own specific survival—whether it is ending a decade-long blockade in Yemen or repelling an occupation in southern Lebanon, or dispatched military "trainers" to directly oversee and direct the Filipino army's counter-insurgency operations.

U.S. imperialism is driven by irreconcilable contradictions not only with the colonial and semi-colonial countries it oppresses abroad, but fundamentally by the contradictions between the U.S. reactionaries and the American people. To launch its predatory wars abroad, the U.S. ruling class must first attack the American people. They do this by extracting massive wealth from the working class (over $11,000 per family for the Pentagon budget) and suppressing them politically and economically.

Therefore, the American masses own participation in building a broad popular front against war and imperialism is not a secondary support group. It is engaged in a direct, life-and-death domestic war of liberation against the mob capitalism complex that has metastasized and dramatically worsened after occupying the halls of decision-making power for several generations.

To truly dismantle the war machine, the U.S. working class must conquer the ideological weapon of American chauvinism, destroy the internal sabotage of revisionism and social-democracy, and forge its own independent political leadership to coordinate the fundamental transformations needed to genuinely vest sovereignty in the American workers and people.

End the Planned Misery of Settler-Colonial State Terror

The Workers Party program demands a nonstop struggle against the "Big Lie" techniques of the bourgeoisie, specifically exposing how the ruling class uses high-sounding phrases—like fighting a "war on terrorism"—to deliberately obscure class antagonism, pacify the masses, and mask naked imperialist plunder.

For instance, the systematic assassination of Palestinian figures and the genocidal war against Gaza, the West Bank and Jerusalem are not simply matters of regional security; they are a fulcrum mechanism for the U.S.-imperialist war machine. A defeat of such a monstrosity in one crossroads is a victory across the board.

The slaughters used to install and maintain "pro-U.S." regimes are almost never explained as the fight for exporting class relations of domination and subjugation, but are instead hidden behind the "dirty fight" against terrorism.

By organizing the masses to come forward in public to lay these accusations against the imperialists and expose their crimes, this method acts as a literal spark. It breaks down isolation and pessimism, concentrates the revolutionary initiative of the masses, and fuses them into an unstoppable force capable of incinerating the imperialist machine.

The main demands of the Palestinian people and their national liberation movement are rooted in a direct material struggle to reclaim their physical homeland from military-colonial occupation.

The Palestinian resistance and its anti-imperialist allies advance the following core demands to secure their complete national sovereignty:

Complete End to the Occupation and Military Withdrawal: The absolute prerequisite for liberation is the immediate and total withdrawal of all Israeli occupying forces from Arab lands. The movement demands the complete emancipation of their homeland and flatly rejects neo-colonial "peace" compromises—such as the Camp David accords—which offer only a fake "autonomy" while keeping Palestinian territories under the permanent police and military tutelage of Israel and U.S. imperialism.

The Right of Return: The archives recognize that the Palestinian people have been subjected to systematic displacement and forced to live in refugee camps across the Middle East. A central, non-negotiable demand is the realization of their national right to return to the historical homes, lands, and hearths that were stolen from them by the Zionist state.

An Independent State with Al-Quds as its Capital: The resistance demands the establishment of a fully independent, sovereign Palestinian state with occupied East Jerusalem (Al-Quds) as its capital. This requires a true government of the Palestinian people, completely free from foreign interference.

A Halt to Settler-Colonial Terror and Ethnic Cleansing: The movement demands an immediate end to the "daily terror" inflicted by extremist Israeli settlers acting with full state impunity. This includes stopping the forced displacement of Palestinians, halting the demographic alteration of occupied Al-Quds, and ending the provocative raids that violate the historical and legal status of Christian and Muslim holy sites, particularly the Al-Aqsa Mosque compound.

Historical Agrarian and Anti-Colonial Demands: The foundation of these modern demands traces back to the early anti-colonial uprisings, such as the 1936 Arab strike. Even then, the foundational demands of the Palestinian chosen leaders were to end the imperialist mandate, stop the systematic displacement of the native population, and distribute the colonized lands back to the poor peasantry (fellaheen).

The resistance targets the political and material apparatus of international Zionism—which functions as a "blind tool" and "gendarme" of U.S. imperialism—but it does not demand the annihilation of the Israeli people or fight against the Jewish faith. The ultimate goal is to shatter the system of colonial robbery and establish a truly free Palestine.

The Palestinian people currently stand in the vanguard of the Arab peoples and the global anti-colonial movement. Their heroic armed struggle serves as a monumental historical example of a small, dispossessed people—many living as refugees in desert tents without a homeland—who refuse to be broken by the massive military machinery of their enemies. Their relentless resistance has birthed a completely new and decisive factor in the Middle East, proving that oppressed nations can successfully withstand both the brute force of foreign occupiers and the deceptive diplomatic maneuvers of the superpowers.

Because the Palestinian resistance is directed against the very spearhead of U.S. monopoly capital and international Zionism, it is the common cause of the international proletariat and all progressive mankind.

Every blow struck by the Palestinian resistance destabilizes the global architecture of imperialist plunder, proving that the reality of our era is an unbroken chain of escalating unity and resistance that will ultimately shatter the foundations of the imperialist presence.
